The team at Utah Valley Dermatology celebrates 10 years of area-leading skin care, from cosmetic concerns to cancer surgery

Good skin is the best first impression someone can make. Not only does healthy skin positively affect the way others see us, it heavily influences the way we feel about ourselves. For patients throughout the area, Dr. David Myers and the team of professionals at Utah Valley Dermatology have been the “go to guys” for all things healthy skin.

Ten years ago, Dr. Myers returned from his dermatological training to his hometown to open Utah Valley Dermatology. Since then, his practice has grown into an area leader in all things dermatology, winning Best of State for dermatology for the ninth year in a row.

Dr. Myers and the other three medical doctors that make up the three locations — Dr. Jordan Harris, Dr. Kevin Myers and Dr. Steven Kelly — are proficient in all areas of general dermatology. The clinic also offers Mohs micrographic surgery, a highly specialized type of surgery for skin cancers that are considered more high risk or are in areas where tissue preservation is important.

Dr. Kelly is the newest addition to the Utah Valley Dermatology family. He joined the practice after completing his residency training in Pennsylvania where he became proficient in medical, surgical and cosmetic dermatology.

To better serve the needs of patients throughout the area, Utah Valley Dermatology has opened a new location in Saratoga Springs, joining the main clinic in Lehi and a secondary Provo location.

Besides medical and surgical concerns, the Utah Valley Dermatology medical spa, located at the Lehi location, offers treatments to improve the look and function of the skin. From acne scar treatments to skin resurfacing, the professionals at Utah Valley Dermatology offer the best in techniques and products, all under the expert and watchful eye of medical specialists.

When he’s not seeing patients in his office, Dr. David Myers is well known on YouTube as “Dr. Derm” where he has more 250,000 subscribers and highlights dermatological issues and their treatments.

Dr. David Myers leads the team and is well-known on YouTube as “Dr. Derm.”

MEDICAL TIP

Visit the dermatologist for any “trouble spots.” It’s better to get something checked that isn’t a problem than to miss the chance to catch something until it’s too late.
